

I wanted to write and comment on the information I have received telling me that Low Power FM stations may replace the local translator service I now have. I am against this as I do NOT want to lose my local KLOVE station that I now receive on FM 106.7 here in Cary, NC.

KLOVE has a wonderful impact on my family and my community. I love having a station that is so family friendly. There is nothing offensive, there are no commercials, so I don't have to worry about what my children (ages six and four) are hearing. The music is uplifting, encouraging, and inspiring. We have a wonderful time singing along to our favorites and I don't have to worry about the lyrics they are repeating because they are great!

I think the loss of KLOVE to a LPFM broadcaster would be detrimental to my community as well as my family. I know that thousands listen to KLOVE across the country and we feel like a family to each other. The community would lose a source of encouragement and positive influence at a time when we really need it! This station raises our spirits and encourages us to have a positive outlook and help each other.

The service that KLOVE provides is in the public interest because of its encouraging and inspiring platform, and its positive impact on the community. The public can listen to contemporary music without worrying about hearing anything vulgar, profane, or offensive. It is so very family friendly, and I think that is a service we need to continue!! I can't think of another station in my area that appeals to the entire family like that! Please don't replace our KLOVE with LPFM!

Sincerely,
